Componeers - Pre-fabricated resin shells solves a lot of the headaches associated with free-handed resin bonding.

Course Topics
- Componeers and its application to day-to-day delivery in aesthetic resin veneer cases
- Clinical applications for Componeers – case selection
- Hands-on techniques to apply Componeers
- Finishing the Componeer restorations

Learning Objectives
- To know what clinical cases can be suitably treated using Componeers
- To give a step by step instruction on the application of Componeers.
- To gain hands-on experience with Componeers in the workshop program

Expand your clinical repertoire by being competent at delivering Componeers to your patients.

About the presenter
Dr Terry Wong initially graduated as a Science graduate (with Honours) at Melbourne University in 1981 and after two years in clinical medical research, switched over to Dentistry at Melbourne University and graduating in 1987.

He lectures both locally and internationally on topics related to composite resin application.

He presently lectures at both Melbourne University to undergraduate dental students on aesthetic and restorative dentistry.

Since 2004, Dr Wong has been conducting hands-on training workshops for dentists on the topic of Resin Bonding and is a Key Opinion leader for 3M Espe and Ivoclar Vivadent.

Presently he maintains a Private Practice primarily devoted to restorative dentistry in the suburb of Blackburn in Melbourne.
